

Dear colleagues!

Photojournalist Maks Levin was tortured by Russian soldiers till he died. He filmed the Russian-Ukrainian war for more than 8 years and dreamed of making a photo that would stop it. In these 90 seconds I will not fit even a hundredth part of the names of Ukrainians, who died in this war.

But each of these victims gave you a historic chance – to be those who stop the war and punish the dictator and his subjects for mass crimes.

This war is against all of us – our countries, families and kids.

Only together we can show that the democratic world has strength and its values of human rights are not for sale for natural gas or ammonia.

Justice and truth are not abstract things.

The truth always leaves traces. We must find them, show them to the whole world and convict those guilty of crimes.

The Ukrainian state is ready to support the work of international investigators.

We have already witnessed Bucha and Iziurm and are, unfortunately, ready for horrors in other de-occupied territories.

With its strong actions and truthful public statements, the Commission can stop the atrocities.

Imagine that at this very moment a Russian soldier launches a missile that kills a Ukrainian family and you can stop it.

It's only necessary to find the truth and speak it out.

Do not be afraid to do this.
